 LISTENING 	 INVENTING 	 PERFORMING
Keep listening to (and watching) as many of your favourite songs and pieces of music whenever you can as it will help you relax and cheer you up.	How did you get on inventing a piece of music? It doesn't have to be on an instrument. You could make up a new song. You could use a tune you already know and sing new words. Try singing about your favourite foods or cartoon characters.	Sing a new song you have learned to the people in your house. Why not perform the song that you invented?
Use music you already have at home on CD/MP3 or find something new on YouTube, Spotify or ask Alexa. Get an adult to help make you a "playlist" of the music you most listen to. Add in a couple new things.	If you didn't manage to or still want to make your own musical instrument, here are some ideas. https://feltmagnet.com/crafts/Music-Instruments-for-Kids-to-Make	If you have a musical instrument at home, or if you have made your own, why not put on a Concert for your family? Get other people you live with to join in too.
Did you listen to something Scottish last week? Try this- you might even recognise the players. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IOQuAwQMamg	After listening to the Scottish music clip, invent a piece of Scottish Music. Quite a lot of Scottish music uses 5 notes. These are the same as the black notes on the piano. Make your music skip and jump like a Highland Dancer. Here is a "virtual" keyboard to use if you need one. http://www.igorski.nl/application/websid/	Perform the Scottish Music you invented. Don't forget to give it a name. You could even get dressed up and wear something Tartan to perform.
Get someone to help you find the "One World: Together at Home" Concert on BBC iPlayer. It was on BBC1, Sunday 19th April. You can watch and listen to a lot of famous musicians.	For the activity above, you can use the keys on a laptop or computer keyboard to help you. 2 3      5 6 7      9 0 These are set out like the black notes.	Send me a photo or a short video of anything you have done. I'd love to see how you are getting on. Don't forget to add your Name, Class and School. gw08mconochieona@glow.sch.uk

 LISTENING 	 INVENTING 	 PERFORMING
Keep listening to (and watching) as many of your favourite songs and pieces of music whenever you can as it will help you relax and cheer you up. If you can, listen outside when you exercise.	You don't have to invent a piece of music on an instrument. You could write a song. Or you could write new words to a song you already know. Try writing a new verse to "I think I know a boy, I think his name is..... I think he goes to bed at night with ....."	Perform the new version of "I think I know a....." in front of the people in your household. Get them to join in with the chorus. "How can they sleep at night with....."
Use music you already have at home on CD/MP3 or find something new on YouTube, Spotify or ask Alexa. Get someone to help you make a "playlist" of your favourite pieces. Try to include new things.	If you didn't manage to or still want to make your own musical instrument, here are some ideas. https://feltmagnet.com/crafts/Music-Instruments-for-Kids-to-Make	Have you given an instrumental performance yet? You could always get some of the people you live with to join in. Play along to some of your favourite music. Try to keep to the beat or "improvise" your own rhythms.
Did you listen to some Gamelan music last week? Try this- https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HMXfsK87NIU The man sitting at the front with the headband on taught Miss McConochie to play a Gamelan when she was training to be a teacher!	You can play along with the Gamelan by making your own set using some kitchen items. Get permission first. Use pots and pans, spoons, cake tins and oven trays. You can recreate the metal "clang" of the Gamelan. This link shows you some ideas https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fsf_idSAJRw	Perform the Gamelan Music you invented. Don't forget to give it a name. Did you notice in the video that the performers don't wear shoes or socks to perform? In Indonesia, Gamelan Music is considered sacred and believed to have supernatural power. Musicians take off their shoes when they play in case it offends the spirits.
Get someone to help you find the "One World: Together at Home" Concert on BBC iPlayer. It was on BBC1, Sunday 19th April. You can watch and listen to a lot of famous musicians. Sing along.	Once you have gathered your materials together, invent a piece of your own just like these people did- https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KrOy0lp4bTY	Send me a photo or a short video of anything you have done. I'd love to see how you are getting on. Don't forget to add your Name, Class and School.  gw08mconochieleona@glow.sch.uk

 LISTENING 	 INVENTING 	 PERFORMING
Use music you already have at home on CD/MP3 or find something new on YouTube, Spotify or ask Alexa. Make your own personal "playlist" of things you like to listen to. Try to include some new things you wouldn't normally choose.	If you didn't manage to or still want to make your own musical instrument, here are some ideas.  https://feltmagnet.com/crafts/Music-Instruments-for-Kids-to-Make	If you managed to make your own Musical Instrument and you already have a real one you could get other members of your household to help you form a band. Play along to one of your favourite songs.
Did you listen to some African Drumming last week? Try this-  https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=FynvKauSRd4        You can hear each drum play before they all join in.	You can play along with the African Drummers by making your own set of drums using some household items. Get permission first. Use plastic tubs, pots and bowls, upturned buckets and empty flower pots. Can you think of anything else?	Using the household items you gathered to invent your own African Drumming piece, perform it in front of an audience. You can show them the video clip and ask them to compare your piece to the original.
Search for the "One World: Together at Home" Concert on BBC iPlayer. It was on BBC1, Sunday 19th April. You can watch and listen to a lot of famous musicians. Is your favourite musician there?	Here are some ideas  https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hpowm8KISs4        Invent your own African Drumming piece.	Send me a photo or a short video of anything you have done. I'd love to see how you are getting on. Don't forget to add your Name, Class and School. gw08mconochieleona@glow.sch.uk
